   - How is feedback obtained and how to deal with negative feedback? Each area sends out an assessment at end of the year, student satisfaction survey. Most recent is the website, students did not like the old website and said it was too difficult to understand, so having people not on the team read the website and give feedback. If negative feedback revolves around staff, go to HR, possibly have more trainings.
   - With the Rec Sport pass are students buying for the full year? Yes. Compared to last year many students bought for quarter, this year we are seeing more annual passes purchased.
   - Partnership with UCD Fire Dep. We have a fit for fire program, the trainers are hired by the department and they do personal training. The fire fighters are allowed to park the truck in the back of the facility because they are on call while they are working out.
   - What is the process for first year students registering for Rec Sports? First years are set up through the residence halls or they can reach out to the department.

Desired Outcomes

- Goal is to welcome all students regardless of fitness level, skill level or body type
- Find a way to communicate that, though we are all different in one way or another, that does not diminish our importance or ability to participate
- Promote all types of wellness and fitness, including mental wellness and all programs (e.g. Band-Uh!, Equestrian and Crafts Center)
- Reach out to students who may have previously been intimidated to try new things or participate in recreation programs
- Design a message that resonates for all (especially the person who feels that this is for “everyone but me”) that we offer a safe place

Making a Difference in Students’ Lives

Every time I am in a horseback, I feel a sense of confidence. Because I have cardiac problems, I cannot do much intense activities like running, so riding becomes one of my few exercises and is my favorite one. I have 20 units this quarter and I need to relax. Every time I ride a horse, I feel like I am charged and get the courage to carry on my life especially in the academic field.

Mental Health & Healing

Horseback riding has been therapeutic for me. I struggle with mild depression and anxiety as a result of PTSD. It’s been a stress reducer and just generally fun. Moreover, I had to leave my dog behind for my studies and being able to interact with the horses has given me something to look forward too. Overall, it’s allowed me to have perspective on my coursework and make sure that, even in the worst days, I will be able to refocus and having a designated hobby outside of coursework helps with discipline as well, and gives me a weekly rest. First, stress relief is a major positive for me as it allows me to refocus. Discipline in listening to a horse in a nonlinguistic way also provides more subtle communication skills.
“The ARC represents the best of Davis – a place where persons of all backgrounds, all beliefs, all abilities, and all interests are welcomed and met with activities suitable to their individual and collective preferences, in a place without judgement” – Liam Honigsberg

October 2019
Making a Difference in Students’ Lives

“My participation in Women’s Rowing has significantly changed my college experience. At this time last year, I felt very out of place and was ready to transfer schools. I am so glad I gave Sport Clubs a try because it has not only widened my social circle, but also helped me mentally and physically deal with the stresses of college life.”

I joined UC Davis Judo for self-defense. I had a bad experience my first year as a transfer student with homophobic housing. I wanted to find a form of self-defense that was effective, and was taught in a space where I could be myself. I told the club members on my first day that I was gay and looking for self-defense. I was welcomed immediately. I trained hard and was pushed just like anyone else in the club. I’ve been a part of this club for about a year now. Having a background in Judo has given me the confidence to feel safe. I’ve seen an improvement in both my physical and mental health since joining. I found a family that supports me as an LGBT athlete. This team cares deeply about creating a safe environment.

Student Wages

838 student employees

$2.6M invested in student payroll

$1.2M invested from FACE/LEAP

- Yearly minimum wage increases until 2021, reaching $15 per hour
- Without these funds, we would have to scale back services to students in the form of available hours or programming based on not being able to afford the additional payroll
- Possible scenario: reducing the ARC closing hour from midnight to 10 p.m. and/or reducing weekend hours

3 Our Impact
This retreat has given me the chance to be connected with my own community. It has brought me the feeling of home. This motivated me to be more involved on campus so I can represent who I am and people who look like me. I feel refreshed to continue my journey as a UCD student.

The SRRC is an amazing resource for underrepresented students who have felt marginalized on campus. I went there my freshman year and met amazing people who were educated, empowering, and truly wanted to impact their communities. I wholeheartedly believe my experience at the SRRC helped me find community on campus and motivated me to become a student leader.
Could not have gotten through this without the community and support the SRRC provided for me. A necessary institution for the most marginalized and underserved. A safe space to relish in joy and love. A safe space to foster academic achievement, professional development, and community involvement.
